

George Clinical

What we do for George Clinical:

Rhycom supports George Clinical, a global contract research organization, with services like integrated media planning, website and CRM management, content creation, and project management. We help drive international awareness, boost website traffic, and position George Clinical as a thought leader through strategic media, digital content, and project coordination.

Focused on Service:

Working with a global client requires us to be responsive and resourceful, especially when it comes to media placement, public relations and content creation spanning continents.

350,000 new cases of breast cancer are expected in the US in 2023.

Our global clinical trial solutions meet the complex demands driving breast cancer research and development.
